MAKING THE MOST OF A SNOW DAY

We had to cancel our walks for the past 2 weeks because of the weather. The snow is still quite deep everywhere so today would have been another cancelled week. However we decided to visit the Missouri Botanical Garden instead. And we're all so glad that we did! The weather was mild and the paths were clear of snow. We visited the annual Orchid Show, then walked throughout the garden, spending time in the Linnean House and enjoying a special exhibit about plant fragrances in the Sachs Museum. Afterwards most of us had lunch at the Sassafras Restaurant. It was a most pleasant morning!

PARTICIPANTS:

There weren't as many of us this week because for some reason not everybody received an email. But at least 10 of us were lucky to get the message. We are, in alphabetical order:

Prem Barton, Kathy Bildner, Steve Bizub, Jerry Castillon, Wayne Clark, HD Key, Michael Laschober, Burt Noll, John Oliver, and David Steinmeyer.
